Calley Paroled, Walks Out Of Prison

FT. LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — Former Army Lt. William L. Calley, convicted in the 1968 My Lai massacre, has been granted parole but will go free on bail before it takes effect, it was announced Friday.

Calley walked out of the disciplinary barracks at Ft. Leavenworth with a military escort Friday night and left for Ft. Benning, Ga., in a military jet. He is to appear in federal court at Columbus, Ga., for bail proceedings Saturday mor-

Earlier Friday, Secretary of the Army Howard Callaway disclosed he signed the parole order on Oct. 30. But it cannot take effect until Nov. 19, when Calley has served one-third of his 10-year prison sentence.

Except for a three-month period when he was free on bail earlier this year, Calley has been in Army custody since his conviction in March 1971 for killing at least 22 Vietnamese civilians.

Callaway's surprise announcement came less than five hours after the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans ordered Calley freed on bail.

One of Calley's attorneys, J. Houston Gordon, said:

"If any prisoner ever deserved parole this one did. We expected that he would be paroled. All those things that are considered when a man is given parole have been met in this case.

The lawyer said he was referring to Calley being a model prisoner and not being considered a threat to society.

"His crime, if a crime at all, was committed during a war, during a combat assault under orders," Gordon said.

Callaway said the Army will not ask "any terms or conditions in connection with Calley's bail" because he had already decided to parole Calley.

The army has appealed previous orders to free Calley on bail that were issued by U.S. District Judge J. Robert Elliott in Columbus.

The judge first granted Calley bail on Feb. 27 and he remained free until June 13 when the 5th Circuit Court revoked bail. He was then sent to Ft. Leavenworth.

While Calley was free on bail, Callaway reduced Calley's sentence, which was originally life imprisonment, to 10 years. In May, former President Richard M. Nixon said he had reviewed the case and would let the 10-sentence stand.

The Army then discharged Calley and asked the appeals court to revoke his bail. The appeals court ordered him returned to custody to serve his sentence.

With military appeals exhausted, Calley's attorneys then appealed his court-martial in federal court on constitutional grounds, which included a contention that Calley did not get a fair trial because of prejudicial publicity.

Elliott overturned the conviction and ordered Calley freed Sept. 25, saying the former Army lieutenant had been held up to the world as a "monster murderer who went about on his own slaughtering innocent civilians willy-nilly for the pleasure of the experience."

The Army immediately won a stay of the order to free Calley and then appealed the lower court's decision.

Calley sought bail pending a decision on the Army appeal. Bail was denied by the appeals court and the U.S. Supreme Court refused to intervene.

The 5th Circuit judges decided Friday to review Elliott's decision at a hearing during the week of Feb. 17 and ordered an expedited schedule for filing written arguments.

The decisions came in a rare court maneuver in which the judges themselves called for a hearing by all active judges in the circuit before the case was decided by a three-judge panel.

The vote was 10-4 to turn Calley loose. The court said it would review Elliott's decision at a hearing during the week of Peters' figures apparently draw the battle lines for next Friday's board meeting when Nebraska's sales and income tax for 1975 will be set.

Earlier this week, the legislative fiscal analyst told the Legislature's Executive Board that the income tax could be cut from 11% to 10% for 1975 if voters rejected a $155 million state aid to education law.

Nixon Described As 'Weak, Tired'

Long Beach, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon was visited Friday by Imelda Marcos, wife of the president of the Philippines. She described Nixon as "very weak and tired."

After talking with Nixon for a few minutes on his top floor hospital room, Mrs. Marcos told newsmen that Nixon, "an old friend of the Philippines and the Marcoses," spoke to her "with great determination" and "was very interested in what is going on in the world."

Earlier in the day, Nixon's personal physician, Dr. John C. Lungren, said Nixon continued to improve. But Lungren would not say whether the former president had been taken off the serious list in his fight to recover from phlebitis surgery.

Lungren said his patient had progressed from a category of "subintensive" care to "an in-hospital recovery period."

-The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia upheld the January 1973 conviction of bugging conspirator G. Gordon Liddy with high praise for Sirica's relentless pursuit of the truth in the case.

-Former White House lawyer Edward L. Morgan pleaded guilty to conspiracy in the backdating of Nixon's gift of his public papers to the government in 1969. Nixon's $576,000 tax deduction claim was disallowed.

-Watergate prosecutors reported to a federal court in Los Angeles that their investigation showed the government's 1972 antitrust suit against the three major television networks was not a harassement maneuver by the Nixon administration.

60-Year-Old Texas Woman Finds Life Increasingly Satisfying

Lots of people gripe about growing older. But some take the years in stride and find life increasingly satisfying as their birthdays accumulate.

"I was amused by the retired pharmacist you quoted who hates age and everything connected with it," writes a woman in Texas. "Why should we throw in the towel and complain when we're so lucky as to survive into our later years?

"I'm 60 years old and proud of it. But I'm certainly not on the shelf. Last year I learned to drive a car, got my driver's license, and have discovered the joys of being able to transport myself wherever I want to go.

"I also learned how to play the electric organ and discovered the delights of creating rich, melodious music. I also had my ears pierced for the first time. Do I sound a little reckless?

"Actually, I'm not a giddy, frantic female trying to grasp at small pleasures or trying to cling to the last shreds of youth. I'm not planning to have my face lifted or start using a lot of make-up in an attempt to look vounger. I use a rinse on my hair and try to take care of my complexion, figure, and grooming. But that's about all.

"My particular delight in growing older is that life seems so much more precious, I seem

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Interstate Commerce Commission on Friday authorized the Union Pacific Railroad to acquire the financially ailing Rock Island line through merger but ordered certain restrictions on the acquisition.

The ruling will affect practically every major railroad in every state west of the Mississippi, the ICC said. It is expected to have far-reaching consequences in the future makeup of the national rail

Whether the merger goes through, however, will depend on whether the various railroads involved in the decision are willing to accept the ICC's con-

The order was the culmination of 11 years of hearings and deliberations on the controversial merger. The ICC said the proceeding was one of the most complex railroad merger cases it has faced in its 87 years.

The Rock Island, known formally as the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad Co., operates nearly 8,000 miles of track in 14 states. It has been financially ailing for years and an ICC law judge found in 1971 that the huge railroad was near bankruptcy.

The case decided Friday began in 1963 when the Chicago and North Western Railroad asked the ICC to let it purchase controlling interest in the Rock Island. That request was countered one year later by the Union Pacific, which asked the ICC to approve a merger between the Union Pacific and the Rock Island. The Union Pacific also proposed selling off all Rock Island track south and southwest of Kansas City to the Southern Pacific.

Union Pacific requested the merger in order to extend its operating area eastward to the rich trade areas of Chicago and St. Louis. The Union Pacific currently operates between the West Coast and Omaha, Neb., and Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Announcement of the commission's decision on the merger application came in a news release. The commission said its actual order, detailing all requirements and conditions of the merger, would not be available for several weeks.

The commission said Union Pacific could acquire Rock Island if it agreed to sell certain Rock Island properties to three other railroads.

The ICC said the Union Pacific must offer for sale to the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad the south and southwest of Kansas City that is not sold to the Santa Fe. The ICC also ordered as a condition of the merger that the Santa Fe include the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad in its system.

The Union Pacific declined to comment on whether it would pursue the merger in light of the ICC's conditions, saying it would have to see the order before commenting. A spokesman for the Union Pacific Corp., holding company of the railroad, said the commission's order could result in lawsuits that would determine the final outcome.

Since neither the Santa Fe nor the Rio Grande has a contract to buy the Rock Island track, the ICC said the terms of those sales would have to be worked out among the various railroads. If the railroads are not able to reach agreement, the ICC said each railroad would submit its proposals to the commission and the ICC would set the terms for the transactions.

The ICC also set several other requirements designed to protect competing railroads in the Midwest from being adversely affected by the merger. And it imposed conditions for the protection of railroad employes that would be affected by the various acquisitions.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Budget Director Roy Ash said Friday that if President Ford decides to slow the growth in federal expenditures, he will have to cut back on such programs as Social Security, revenue sharing and aid to dependent

But Ash sought to emphasize at a White House budget briefing for reporters that no decisions have been made on the 1976 budget or on any program reductions. He also noted that many of these programs, called income-transfer programs because they redistribute income from one person to another, would require legislation to change

Ash said the decline in the nation's economy probably will reduce federal tax receipts below the $330 billion level, which had been forecast earlier.

And he indicated the Ford administration's commitment to a balanced budget for 1976 is weakening.

"A balanced budget is certainly the direction we should be going in; we want to be sure the 1976 budget best serves the economy for 1976," Ash said.

is now beyond reach because of the sagging economy. The Ford administration had been pushing the idea of a balanced budget as a major support for its anti-inflation program.

Ash said budget deficits in recent years have resulted more from a loss of potential federal revenue than from an increase in government expenditures.

Ash repeated — as he has said before that the big increase in federal spending since 1968 has been in income transfer programs, such as Social Security, while other government expenditures, including defense expenditures, have decreased proportionally.

"The main role of government is no longer governing," Ash said. "The main role of government is now redistributing wealth, taking from some people and giving it to others.'

Corn Prospects Fall

Washington (UPI) - Prospects for the weather-plagued 1974 corn crop fell another 2% last month, leaving it 18% below last year and foreshadowing higher future grocery bills for consumers, the Agriculture Department reported Friday.

Average October-December retail food prices may be about 2.5% above the July-September quarter, and shoppers could find a further gain of anywhere between 2 and 5% in the first quarter of next year, one specialist said.

The department's November crop report estimated the corn harvest, which officials once hoped would hit a new record to ease domestic food prices and a worldwide grain squeeze, at 4.621 billion bushels compared with last year's record 5.643 billion bushels.

With sugar prices soaring to new records, the crop report showed U.S. sugar beet production would be down 9% from 1973 while sugar cane output would be down 2%. The U.S. crops account for about half of the nation's sugar supply. Both cane and beet prospects were down from a month earlier.

The 1974 crop estimates, meanwhile, indicated that prospects for soybeans — another key ingredient in production of livestock foods - declined 1% in October. The crop was estimated at 1.244 billion bushels, down 21% from last year's

The corn harvest estimate indicated that total domestic and export demand for that key crop in the 1974-75 marketing season would exceed the harvest.

Grain sorghum production was estimated in the Nov. 1 report at 609.3 million bushels, down 4% from last month's forecast and 35% below last year's crop.

Election Law Has Loophole

Washington (UPI) - A loophole in the new campaign finance law permits those who made and received illegal campaign contributions during the 1972 congressional races to avoid prosecution, a spokesman for Watergate prosecutors said Friday.

It also puts pressure on Special Watergate Prosecutor Henry Ruth to speed indictments for campaign contribution violators — or lose the cases.

The new federal election campaign act, signed by President Ford Oct. 16, retroactively changed the statute of limitations for criminal violations from five to three years. Thus, those who made or received illegal campaign contributions before Jan. 1, 1972, cannot be indicted once the law goes into

This means the Justice Department and the special prosecutor's office will have to act within six weeks to indict those who made or received illegal contributions between January and April 1972.

"We were totally surprised at that section in the " said James Doyle, spokesman for the prosecutor's office.

Fibers Pollute Lake Superior

Iowa City, Iowa (UPI) - Asbestos fibers known to cause cancer in humans have been found in high concentrations along the western arm of Lake Superior, according to a report prepared by the American Chemical Society.

The study, released at the society's 10th annual Midwest meeting Thursday, indicated about 2,000 square miles of the lake are polluted by the fibers.

Workers exposed to the fibers in iron ore refining operations have been found to develop stomach cancer at a rate three times higher than persons not so exposed, one scientist said.

The asbestos fibers are a by-product from mining ore containing taconite and low concentrations of asbestos fibers. The taconite tailings are dumped into the lake by the Reserve Mining Co. of Silver Bay, Minn.

Ex-Guardsmen Acquitted In Kent State Shootings

federal judge acquitted on Friday eight former Ohio National Guardsmen indicted in the 1970 Kent State University shootings, but he said state officials may wish to pursue criminal charges in the case.

U.S. District Judge Frank J. Battisti said evidence presented by the government was insufficient to prove that the defendants intended to deprive anyone of civil rights, as charged in the federal indictments.

His written opinion was given in granting a defense motion for a judgment of acquittal after two weeks of trial.

Strings Attached To Union Pacific's Acquisition Of Rock Island

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission on Friday authorized the Union Pacific Rashroad to acquire the financially ailing Rock Island line through merger but ordered certain restrictions on the acquisition.

The ruling will affect practically every major railroad in every state west of the Mississippi, the ICC said. It is expected to have far-reaching consequences in the future makeup of the national rail

Whether the merger goes through, however, will depend on whether the various railroads involved in the decision are willing to accept the ICC's con-

The order was the culmination of 11 years of hearings and deliberations on the controversial merger. The ICC said the proceeding was one of the most complex railroad merger cases it has faced in its 87 years.

The Rock Island, known formally as the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad Co., operates nearly 8,000 miles of track in 14 states. It has been financially ailing for years and an ICC law judge found in 1971 that the huge railroad was near bankruptcy.

The case decided Friday began in 1963 when the Chicago and North Western Railroad asked the ICC to let it purchase controlling interest in the Rock Island. That request was countered one year later by the Union Pacific, which asked the ICC to approve a merger between the Union Pacific and the Rock Island. The Union Pacific also proposed selling off all Rock Island track south and southwest of Kansas City to the Southern Pacific.

Union Pacific requested the merger in order to extend its operating area eastward to the rich trade areas of Chicago and St. Louis. The Union Pacific currently operates between the West Coast and Omaha, Neb., and Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Announcement of the commission's decision on the merger application came in a news release. The commission said its actual order, detailing all requirements and conditions of the merger, would not be available for several weeks.

The commission said Union Pacific could acquire Rock Island if it agreed to sell certain Rock Island properties to three other railroads.

The ICC said the Union Pacific must offer for sale to the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad the Rock Island line between Amarillo, Tex., and Memphis, Tenn. It said the Union Pacific must offer for sale to the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad the Rock Island track between Denver and Colorado Springs, Colo., to Omaha, Neb.

And it said the Union Pacific must offer for sale to the Southern Pacific all other Rock Island track south and southwest of Kansas City that is not sold to the Santa Fe.

The ICC also ordered as a condition of the merger that the Santa Fe include the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad in its system.

The Union Pacific declined to comment on whether it would pursue the merger in light of the ICC's conditions, saying it would have to see the order before commenting. A spokesman for the Union Pacific Corp., holding company of the railroad, said the commission's order could result in lawsuits that would determine the final outcome. Since neither the Santa Fe nor the Rio Grande has a contract to buy the Rock Island track, the ICC said the terms of those sales would have to be worked out among the various railroads. If the railroads are not able to reach agreement, the ICC said each railroad would submit its proposals to the commission and the ICC would set the terms for the transactions.

The ICC also set several other requirements designed to protect competing railroads in the Midwest from being adversely affected by the merger. And it imposed conditions for the protection of railroad employes that would be affected by the various acquisitions.

He said recognition by the United States of the Palestinian Liberation Organization as a party to Middle East peace negotiations "would be helpful if it happens.1

Gibson Nomination Unlikely

Intelligence Work Told

Bonn - The United States Army's highest-ranking intelligence officer in Germany has made a sworn court statement saying that the Army, in the course of its 'countersubversion" operations in West Germany and West Berlin, penetrated civilian organizations, had civilian telephones tapped and intercepted mail, at least until last month.

'Wealth Redistribution' May Be Cut, Ash Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Budget Director Roy Ash said Friday that if President Ford decides to slow the growth in federal expenditures, he will have to cut back on such programs as Social Security. revenue sharing and aid to dependent

But Ash sought to emphasize at a White House budget briefing for reporters that no decisions have been made on the 1976 budget or on any program reductions. He also noted that many of these programs, called income-transfer programs because they redistribute income from one person to another, would require legislation to

Ash said the decline in the nation's economy probably will reduce federal tax receipts below the $330 billion level, which had been forecast earlier.

And he indicated the Ford administration's commitment to a balanced budget for 1976 is weakening.

"A balanced budget is certainly the direction we should be going in, we want to be sure the 1976 budget best serves the economy for 1976," Ash said.

Other administration officials have said in recent days they feel a balanced budget is now beyond reach because of the sagging economy. The Ford administration had been pushing the idea of a balanced budget as a major support for its anti-inflation program.

Ash said budget deficits in recent years have resulted more from a loss of potential federal revenue than from an increase in government expenditures.

Ash repeated — as he has said before that the big increase in federal spending since 1968 has been in income transfer programs, such as Social Security, while other government expenditures, including defense expenditures, have decreased proportionally.

More than half of federal revenues 'now are on their way to somebody else to spend," he said.

"If we are to reduce the rate of growth of federal expenditures, we will have to do it in income transfers, because that's where the money is being spent," Ash

Corn Prospects Fall

Washington (UPI) - Prospects for the weather-plagued 1974 corn crop fell another 2% last month, leaving it 18% below last year and foreshadowing higher future grocery bills for consumers, the Agriculture Department reported Friday.

Average October-December retail food prices may be about 2.5% above the July-September quarter, and shoppers could find a further gain of anywhere between 2 and 5% in the first quarter of next year, one specialist said.

... The department's November crop report estimated the corn harvest, which officials once hoped would hit a new record to ease domestic food prices and a worldwide grain squeeze, at 4.621 billion bushels compared with last year's record 5.643 billion bushels.

With sugar prices soaring to new records, the crop report showed U.S. sugar beet production would be down 9% from 1973 while sugar cane output would be down 2%. The U.S. crops account for about half of the nation's sugar supply. Both cane and beet prospects were down from a month earlier. . The 1974 crop estimates, meanwhile, indicated that prospects for soybeans - another key ingredient in production of livestock foods — declined 1% in October. The crop was estimated at 1.244 billion bushels, down 21% from last year's record.

The corn harvest estimate indicated that total domestic and export demand for that key crop in the 1974-75 marketing season would exceed the harvest.

Grain sorghum production was estimated in the Nov. 1 report at 609.3 million bushels, down 4% from last month's forecast and 35% below last year's crop.

There was no new estimate of the 1974 wheat crop, leaving it at the record 1,781 billion bushels forecast in October, 4% above 1973.

Sugar Firms Boost Prices

NEW YORK (AP) - Amstar Corp. and SuCrest Corp. on Friday announced wholesale price increases on industrial sugar that emphasized the confusion accompanying the dizzying climb of raw sugar prices worldwide.

SuCrest's Sweetener Division posted an $11 per hundredweight increase, but Amstar followed with a hike of only $3.35 per hundredweight. After mulling over Amstar's lower price, SuCrest announced late in the day it would not rescind its higher price list, but would give customers a $7.65 allowance per hundredweight to match Amstar's

"We're in a complete quandary," said a SuCrest spokesman. "We can't understand what's going on in

An Amstar spokesman said the firm was "examining this thing on a day to day basis. We're doing the best we can."

Election Law Has Loophole

Washington (UPI) - A loophole in the new campaign finance law permits those who made and received illegal campaign contributions during the 1972 congressional races to avoid prosecution, a spokesman for Watergate prosecutors said Friday.

It also puts pressure on Special Watergate Prosecutor Henry Ruth to speed indictments for campaign contribution violators - or lose the cases. The new federal election campaign act, signed by President Ford Oct. 16, retroactively changed the statute of limitations for criminal violations from five to three years. Thus, those who made or received illegal campaign contributions before Jan. 1, 1972, cannot be indicted once the law goes into

This means the Justice Department and the special prosecutor's office will have to act within six weeks to indict those who made or received illegal contributions between January and April 1972.

"We were totally surprised at that section in the bill," said James Doyle, spokesman for the prosecutor's office.

Fibers Pollute Lake Superior

Iowa City, Iowa (UPI) - Asbestos fibers known to cause cancer in humans have been found in high concentrations along the western arm of Lake Superior, according to a report prepared by the American Chemical Society.

The study, released at the society's 10th annual Midwest meeting Thursday, indicated about 2,000 square miles of the lake are polluted by the fibers.

Workers exposed to the fibers in iron ore refining operations have been found to develop stomach cancer at a rate three times higher than persons not so exposed, one scientist said. The asbestos fibers are a by-product from mining ore containing taconite and low concentrations of asbestos fibers. The taconite tailings are dumped into the lake by the Reserve Mining Co. of Silver Bay, Minn.

Kissinger Launching New Diplomatic Round Kissinger flew into Tunisia for talks

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) - Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger wound up his tour of the Middle East on Friday, and U.S. officials said he is launching a new round of "quiet or secret diplomacy" in his quest for peace.

They said he has been urged by the Arabs and Israelis to keep serving as a mediator and that results should become clearer in the next few weeks.

The officials said an intensive period of consultation is ahead, and that several Arab foreign ministers who will be in New York next week to attend the U.N. debate on the Palestinian issue are expected to hop down to Washington to see Kissinger.

Israeli officials that "new possibilities" in negotiations must be explored carefully. "We are now in an extremely delicate with government leaders after assuring phase," he said in Jerusalem. "It is extremely complicated. A great deal depends on psychological understanding, political sensitivity and on confidence in each other."

Israeli Information Minister Aharon Yariv said Kissinger would return to Israel in a few weeks after the U.S.-Soviet summit. He said after that visit the Israeli government would know more clearly whether negotiations could resume with

60-Year-Old Texas Woman Finds Life Increasingly Satisfying

By ROBERT PETERSON Lots of people gripe about growing older. But some take the years in stride and find life increasingly satisfying as their an acre but it's the source of so birthdays accumulate.

"I was amused by the retired pharmacist you quoted who hates age and everything connected with it," writes a woman in Texas. "Why should we throw in the towel and complain when we're so lucky as to survive into our later years?

"I'm 60 years old and proud of it. But I'm certainly not on the shelf. Last year I learned to drive a car, got my driver's license, and have discovered the joys of being able to transport myself wherever I want to go.

"I also learned how to play the electric organ and discovered the delights of creating rich. melodious music. I also had my ears pierced for the first time. Do I sound a little reckless?

"Actually, I'm not a giddy, frantic female trying to grasp at small pleasures or trying to cling to the last shreds of youth. I'm not planning to have my face lifted or start using a lot of make-up in an attempt to look younger. I use a rinse on my hair and try to take care of my complexion, figure, and grooming. But that's about all.

"My particular delight in growing older is that life seems lawn mowing, battling weeds, raising flowers, and keeping things neat are intensely satisfying. Add to this the housework, community activities, and contacts with friends. The days pass all too

"I go to bed each night reflecting on what a nice day it was and looking forward to the next. I'm an exception but I find life getting better all the time, and see no reason why any healthy person past 60 shouldn't find it wonderful to be alive."

Forecast For Saturday

The Scorpio man can be self-centered, but perhaps with good reason. Here is the proverbial "good provider," intense, getting priorities in order, willing to work hard, insisting on loyalty but also living up to his own rules. Ladies, this man is no person's fool, he is difficult to live with but he will give you plenty of love and he won't let you starve or feel inferior to any of your contemporaries. Other men find him an excellent competitor and he is an individual who fights, claws, wins and when the battle is over he wins graciously and lends a helping hand to the vanquished. Gottsch said the association believes the smaller dry dams would keep farmland in production, provide flood protection and keep land on tax rolls at less cost than the corps dams, which will have lakes behind them.

Gottsch said the dry dams would store water during heavy rains, then release it slowly over a period of time. He said he did not know how many would be needed in the Papio Basin to prevent flood damage, but the association is working on detailed plans and has hired > Merlon England, general manager of the Papio Natural Resources District, said he doubts there would be financial savings by building more dry dams than the corps dams. He said land acquired for dry dams can't be farmed and would be open for public use, so there would be little difference.

He said switching to dry dams would be accepting less flood protection. Terracing and small watershed dams are not designed for flood control but to control erosion.

Federal Probe Asked Into Rushville Incident

Federal authorities were asked Friday to investigate an incident at a Rushville, Neb., restaurant in which Supt. Albert W. Trimble of the Pine Ridge Reservation was struck in the face by an Oglala Sioux tribal official.

Trimble said he had talked to a U.S. attorney in Rapid City and had called Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) police to investigate the matter.

He said he was attacked by Gerald Big Crow, Pine Ridge, as he was eating dinner. The attack, he said, was triggered by recent disputes between him and the tribal government.

Sugar Cost Not Too Sweet

Omaha (AP) - A survey of 35 independent and chain grocery stores in the Omaha-Council Bluffs area indicates that housewives are paying 40% more for sugar than they did just two months However, many of the stores surveyed sav they expect prices to go up again next Monday. On Sept. 3 the average price for a five-pound bag of sugar was $1.85. On Oct. 3 the average price had risen to $1.99, and Friday, the average price was up to $2.59.

Highest Price $2.89 During Friday's check, the lowest price found was $2.19, the highest $2.89.

Some stores in the two-city area have begin to ration sugar purchases, allowing just one fivepound bag per customer.

As might be expected, the rise in sugar prices is pushing up the prices of products which use sugar. Price increases have been noted in soft drinks, frostings, canned fruits, pre-sweetenedjuices, sweetened cereals and many other items that include sugar on their lists of ingredients. Different Approaches

Meanwhile, two supermarket chains in Omaha are taking different approaches in attempting to curb sugar sales.

He said limiting purchases could also help steady prices since demand for sugar from the stores should decline.

Harder said the action affects only stores in Nebraska and Iowa, and he didn't know whether other Safeway divisions would limit purchases.

is Corn : Sugar Coming?

The Lincoln Star 5

Saturday, Nov. 9, 1974

By The Associated Press Sugar can be derived from corn and sold to consumers cheaper than the current 50-cent per pound cost of beet or cane sugar, according to a University of Nebraska doctor of chemical engineering.

Dr. William E. Scheller said Friday there was enough starch in a bushel of corn to make 34 pounds of sugar. Corn was selling for less than $3.50 per bushel

Scheller said the process was not feasible a year ago when the price of table sugar was as low as 10 cents a pound, but he-said current prices made the process

Dextrose is used as a sweetner in some foods such as candy bars, he said. The process of making sugar from corn starch is already widely used in the manufacture of grain alcohol Scheller said the only innovation necessary would be a process to refine the corn sugar into a white crystalline form. ### Wasting Time In Rome

The World Food Conference in Rome is fast turning into a political circus. China ealls for the expulsion from the conference of non-communist neighbors. Other third world nations blame the United States for the world's economic problems and join with China in claiming that the superpowers have caused the food shortage.

And for its part, the United States has representatives in Rome whose singleminded purpose seems to be the assertion that the U.S. taxpayer cannot be expected to pay the bill in feeding the world's hungry

When nations begin arguing ideology or politics or whatever, and blaming each other for the world's problems little else is ever accomplished. It is tempting to write off the World Food Conference as just another forum for political propaganda. But it really can't be written off, because of the immense problem that the shortage of food poses for the world. At some point in time, the world community will have to forget about the past or it will be hung up on the past and will lose control over the future

It may well be that the superpowers are more responsible than anyone else for the shortage of food because the developed, populous, powerful nations are the leading squanderers of the world's natural resources. But admitting that will not put any more grain on the table in south Asia or Africa tomorrow.

Nor will demanding that the U.S. and the other major food producers take the burden entirely upon themselves to produce the food and distribute it to the world's hungry. One of the hard realities that must be faced is that nobody is going to admit that he owes anybody else a neverending supply of free meals.

Underdeveloped nations will have to rapidly develop their food-producing potential. Nations which are now only marginally taking care of their own, such as China, will have to become exporters, and they have the potential capacity to do it. And the major food exporters will have to gear up production to an even higher level.

The burden will have to be distributed equitably and that is what the World Food Conference should be talking about, instead of the participants making faces at one another.

And those who possess certain natural resources upon which the rest of the world depends, such as the exporters of oil and precious metals, who are charging outrageous prices for their products, are going to have to understand that the food producers are not going to continue to give away their resources for next-to-nothing

Gibson Under Fire

In his hurry to replace energy chief John Sawhill for the unpardonable sin of advocating mandatory energy conservation controls, President Ford bypassed a thorough background check of Sawhill's successor, Andrew E. Gibson.

Now it comes to light that Gibson is benefitting from a $1 million, ten-year employment separation contract with the Interstate Oil Transport Co. of Philadelphia, a firm which operates oil tankers and is partially-owned by a large oil company. As an energy czar still being paid by the oil industry, some conflicts of interest are possible, some people are saying. Gibson claims that the employment separation contract is iron-clad and will be paid out no matter what decisions he is in on as energy chief, and thus there is no room for conflict.

Although we would prefer to see someone of Sawhill's mind on the job in the energy office, we can't see scuttling the Gibson appointment because of a deal made to get out of prior employment.

Checking on whether a person has had brushes with the law or has paid his taxes or checking his public record in general is a necessity in this day and age. But because of Agnew and Nixon and Judges Carswell and Haynesworth it seems like we're trying to disqualify everyone for serving in a public position.

We're almost going too far.

NEW YORK - Holding the World Food Conference in Rome was as thoughtless as assigning a rabbit to guard the lettuce patch. Romans are the most-fed people in the world. One cannot throw a teaspoon of zabaglione or an osso buco without hitting a first-class restaurant. Italian businessmen speed home at noon at 130 kilometers an hour to consume lunches that would have felled Julius Caesar. The sound of food being chomped at any of the "original" Alfredos can be heard all the way to Leonardo da Vinci airport, accompanied by delicate al dente nuances from Hosteria del Orso and George's.

Thus it was against the background of deliciously aromatic specialities, snow-topped with fragrant Parmesan, that Henry Kissinger rose to warn the lukewarm assembly of 2,500 delegates: "World population is projected to double by the end of the century. It is clear that we must meet the food need that this entails. But it is equally clear that population cannot continue indefinitely to double every generation. At some point, we will inevitable exceed the earth's capacity to sustain human life." He proposed a 5-point share-the-food plan.

☆ ☆ ☆ The delegates, having just returned from lunch - cocktails, lasagna, cutlets Milanese. peas in butter, salad, fruit and wine - gave the secretary of state a minimum of applause. One of the delegates, Iowa's Nobel Prize-Winner Dr. Norman E. Borlaug, probably the world's greatest authority on wheat, suggested that

Kissinger and a dozen other top people at the conference lock themselves in a room and go ten days without food. Dr. Borlaug thought that they would emerge with a much better understanding of how to fight the scourge of hunger that has stricken much of the world.

As a working figure, the delegates chose 1,-000,000 as the number of people facing imminent death from starvation. A British lady scientist suggested that if everybody on earth ate one fewer hamburger a week, including vegetarian pygmies, presumably, everything might turn out fine. No one seemed to have seconded her mo-

Another good reason for not holding the conference in Rome was the fact that Italy didn't have a government — not that that makes a lot of difference in Italy. But it's sticky from a protocol standpoint - not to have a guy in a sash and balancing a silk hat on his noggin shaking hands at the airport.

By a stark coincidence, on the day of Kissinger's fine clarion call to other fat nations to help us support one of history's finest shows of brotherhood, Michigan agricultural officials ordered the slaughter of 5,000 more beef and dairy cattle that had nibbled at feed senselessly contaminated by a fire retardent. And in Minnestoa, 150 farmers, protesting low livestock prices, killed more than 300 cattle, hogs and sheep and kicked or bulldozed the carcasses into an open ditch.

NEW YORK - On the morning after the election, Nelson Rockefeller spent hours on the phone in his Manhattan office congratulating the winners and consoling the losers. Nothing seems to subdue or depress this man. All his party's troubles, all his family anxieties, all the opposition to his confirmation as vice president of the United States merely seem to have liberated his boundless supply of energy and optimism.

It is not that he is blind or indifferent to other potential difficulties ahead. In fact, he has a short list of impending dangers that could quickly make the economic prospect even grimmer than it now seems.

A coal strike this month, a strike of the oil, chemical and atomic workers next month, a 12% shortage of natural gas in what promises to be a very cold winter, and the very real danger of another Middle East war plus higher oil prices and even an oil boycott — any one of these, he thinks, could spin us into a major crisis in the nation.

But it is typical of Rockefeller that he anticipates these possible problems, not to deplore them. but to act now to avoid them, and to be ready with a program to deal with them if they cannot be avoided.

His present frustration is that, pending confirmation by the House and Senate as vice president, he feels like a beached whale, eager to help President Ford in any way the President asks him to help, confident that the problems before the nation are soluble, even excited about presiding over the Senate! - but unable to do anything until sworn into office. And meanwhile even wondering whether it would be all right if he accepted an invitation to the new governor's conference in Utah this weekend.

He is not very interested in talking about the election. He has computerized the returns, and knows all the cards in the deck, but they are obviously not his favorite topic. He agrees, reluctantly, that maybe his handpicked successor as governor of New York, Malcolm Wilson, might have done better if he had followed the progressive Republican line of the Dewey-Rockefeller years in Albany, but he avoids personal blame and puts the election results down to the accumulated frustrations of the small society

Vietnam, Watergate and the recession

What really interests him is how we can get on to practical remedies for our energy crisis, and how to mobilize the scientific and engineering talents of the nation to make us more independent of energy resources

Rockefeller is in his sixties now. He has gone through all the political and ideological battles of the last generation, and seems to have concluded that the practical problems of life cannot be resolved by old party slogans or ideologies.

Since the beginning of this year, when he resigned the governorship of New York, he has been gathering together the best brains Rockefeller money can buy to define the "critical choices" before America and the world, and one of the members of this company was Gerald Ford, who sat in on these discussions of the coming age. The guess here is that this was an important maybe even a decisive factor in President Ford's selection of Rockefeller for vice presi-

Since then, however, Ford and Rockefeller haven't been able to talk very much. The election, the personal medical problems of their families, and Rockefeller's confirmation difficulties have intervened, so Rockefeller sits here in his office on 55th Street and waits for a call to Washington from Chairman Cannon in the Senate and Chairman Rodino in the House to decide whether he is going to be vice president or not.

☆ ☆ ☆ Meanwhile, Rockefeller waits and concentrates, not on the pessimistic predictions about his party, his country, and the Western world, but about his optimistic visions of the future. In his spare office behind his blind door on 55th Street - the calculated austerity of the rich he keeps talking and vearning for that national office he was never quite able to achieve.

He has a cheap artist's easel or display stand next to a table for six or eight in his office. And on it this week he has a triangle which is supposed to illustrate the dilemma of the energy crisis. The word "Cheap" is at the top of the triangle - what all people want. The word "Secure" is at the bottom left of the triangle. And the word "Clean" is right

Rockefeller points to this chart as the triangular political dilemma. There are wellorganized and powerful forces for what is cheap, secure and clean. The only trouble. Rockefeller says, is that they are all in conflict with each other. And maybe we will never get them all together unless things get even worse than they are

So he waits on 55th Street and he muses. If only we could get the scientists back in the government, and think about our possibilities instead of our problems! We don't have to make aluminum out of bauxite. he says. We could make it out of sand. Hydrogen is plentiful but dangerous. Yet, maybe we could tame it. We don't necessarily have to choose between choking ourselves on high sulphur coal or not using it at all: We could burn it when the wind is blowing out to sea and forbid it other times.

On food and hunger, how to get elected and how to govern and the difference between the two - on his mistakes of the past and his hopes for the future he talks between the telephone calls. Always, he is almost too happy to hear the voice, too complimentary, too consoling, and particularly too flattering.

But there is something very good at the bottom of this well, for unlike most men of his age, he is thinking of the future, and gathering together the brains and vision of the coming years. (c) New York Times Service

TODAY'S

The Day Of Armistice

Lincoln, Neb. One really doesn't need November 11 to remind the world of the agonizing years of war. I still relive the day my teen-age son called from Omaha, his voice high with excitement, with the news that he had passed his physical and was in the Navy. My heart turned to lead.

The morning he left Lincoln, we chatted and smiled, and his eyes were bright with anticipation. At last the train gave its final call. We could see his serious face in the window as the train began moving away.

He spent months in Farragut, Idaho. We wrote often and he came home once, proud of his blue uniform.

Then he was on his way overseas and into the midst of the war. There were hidden mines and enemy planes as he participated in the invasion of Normandy.

On D-Day, listening to the radio, my pencil splintered between my fingers as I prayed for him. Months later, I was aroused from a deep sleep. I arose, walked through the house, out the front door and down the porch steps.

There, suddenly, was my son. We laughed and held each other close as the taxi door was slamming shut. God had brought my son safely home.

Answering Some Questions

Lincoln, Neb. The Star's recent news story concerning rate increases for steam heat and the continuous claim that the downtown steam heat customers are being subsidized by the electric rate payers raises some questions that I believe should be answered by an impartial accounting firm.

First of all, the K Street plant was built primarily as an electric generating facility. The steam used to generate that electricity was and is sold to downtown customers who use it to heat buildings. This appears to me to be an extremely efficient process of getting the very most out of each B.T.U. of fuel.

Now, it is my understanding that L.E.S. is obligated for a fixed period of time to furnish electricity from this plant to N.P.P.D. or pay $24,000 a month to N.P.P.D. in lieu of furnishing this electricity. Therefore, it follows that since the K Street plant is generating electricity, the remaining steam energy that is sold as a byproduct helps defray the cost of this electric generation.

If it is true that the K Street plant is old and more costly to operate than a modern plant would be, then I don't see how that can be faulted against the steam customers.

Now, "subsidize" is not a very "nice" word, but since it is being used in this matter, how about other "subsidies" such as large electric users paying less per unit than small users?

And I would take issue with a member of the L.E.S. board's statement that L.E.S. is not trying to force electricity for heat, with the fact that L.E.S. offered lower electric rates for a period of time to steam customers shifting to electricity for heat.

Lastly, I would add - It's easy to say to the steam customers: "Shift to an alternate source of heat," but I would remind those saying this that pollution and cost are very real and serious problems for these steam customers.

The latest report from the new steam-electric generating plant in Nashville, Tennessee, is that they are now burning 80%solid waste for fuel and selling steam at $1.50 per thousand

Waverly School Board

Waverly, Neb. The votes are in and the Waverly School District board members have been chosen, but I believe the letter from "Concerned Parent" did three of the candidates a disservice.

All six of the citizens who were running for school board are well qualified, thinking people who would have put forth maximum efforts if elected, but because three of them are teachers or former teachers, "Concerned Parent" did not feel they should have a place in the management of the system. All six candidates could have made worthy contributions to the board, for they are recognized as strong-minded individuals, capable of making decisions intelligently, objectively and ultimately in the best interests of the students.

I hope that "Concerned Parent's" letter is not implying that teachers should remain silent when it comes to politics or any other important cause, because it is every citizen's right and responsibility to become involved.

All of the candidates running for office had one special interest - the welfare of the children. Those elected will work with those continuing in office for that same interest. As a parent of children attending Wavery's excellent schools and as a teacher in the system and a member of the professional associations, that is my special interest, too.

Wasting Time In Rome

The World Food Conference in Rome is fast turning into a political circus. China calls for the expulsion from the conference of non-communist neighbors. Other third world nations blame the United States for the world's economic problems and join with China in claiming that the superpowers have caused the food shortage.

And for its part, the United States has representatives in Rome whose singleminded purpose seems to be the assertion that the U.S. taxpayer cannot be expected to pay the bill in feeding the world's

 When nations begin arguing ideology or politics or whatever, and blaming each other for the world's problems little else is ever accomplished. It is tempting to write off the World Food Conference as just another forum for political propaganda. But it really can't be written off, because of the immense problem that the shortage of food poses for the world. At some point in time, the world community will have to forget about the past or it will be hung up on the past and will lose control over the future.

It may well be that the superpowers are more responsible than anyone else for the shortage of food because the developed, populous, powerful nations are the leading squanderers of the world's natural resources. But admitting that will not put any more grain on the table in south Asia or Africa tomorrow.

Nor will demanding that the U.S. and the other major food producers take the burden entirely upon themselves to produce the food and distribute it to the world's hungry. One of the hard realities that must be faced is that nobody is going to admit that he owes anybody else a neverending supply of free meals.

Underdeveloped nations will have to rapidly develop their food-producing potential. Nations which are now only marginally taking care of their own, such as China, will have to become exporters, and they have the potential capacity to do it. And the major food exporters will have to gear up production to an even higher level.

The burden will have to be distributed equitably and that is what the World Food Conference should be talking about, instead of the participants making faces at --one another.

And those who possess certain natural' resources upon which the rest of the world depends, such as the exporters of oil and precious metals, who are charging outrageous prices for their products, are going to have to understand that the food producers are not going to continue to give away their resources for next-to-nothing

Lincoln, Neb.

One really doesn't need November 11 to remind the world of the agonizing years of war. I still relive the day my teen-age son called from Omaha, his voice high with excitement, with the news that he had passed his physical and was in the Navy. My heart turned to lead.

The morning he left Lincoln, we chatted and smiled, and his eyes were bright with anticipation. At last the train gave its final call. We could see his serious face in the window as the train began moving away.

He spent months in Farragut, Idaho. We wrote often and he came home once, proud of his blue uniform.

. Then he was on his way overseas and into the midst of the war. There were hidden mines and enemy planes as he participated in the invasion of Normandy. On D-Day, listening to the radio, my pencil splintered between my fingers as I prayed for him. Months later, I was aroused from a deep sleep. I arose, walked through the house.

out the front door and down the porch steps. There, suddenly, was my son. We laughed and held each other close as the taxi door was slamming shut. God had brought my son safely home.

Answering Some Questions

Lincoln, Neb. The Star's recent news story concerning rate increases for steam heat and the continuous claim that the downtown steam heat customers are being subsidized by the electric rate payers raises some questions that I believe should be answered by an impartial accounting firm.

First of all, the K Street plant was built primarily as an electric generating facility. The steam used to generate that electricity was and is sold to downtown customers who use it to heat buildings. This appears to me to be an extremely efficient process of getting the very most out of each B.T.U. of fuel.

Now, it is my understanding that L.E.S. is obligated for a fixed period of time to furnish electricity from this plant to N.P.P.D. or pay $24,000 a month to N.P.P.D. in lieu of furnishing this electricity. Therefore, it follows that since the K Street plant is generating electricity, the remaining steam energy that is sold as a byproduct helps defray the cost of this electric generation.

If it is true that the K Street plant is old and more costly to operate than a modern plant would be, then I don't see how that can be faulted against the steam customers.

Now, "subsidize" is not a very "nice" word, but since it is being used in this matter, how about other "subsidies" such as large electric users paying less per unit than small users?

And I would take issue with a member of the L.E.S. board's statement that L.E.S. is not trying to force electricity for heat, with the fact that L.E.S. offered lower electric rates for a period of time to steam customers shifting to electricity for heat.

Lastly, I would add - It's easy to say to the steam customers: "Shift to an alternate source of heat," but I would remind those saying this that pollution and cost are very real and serious problems for these steam customers.

The latest report from the new steam-electric generating plant in Nashville. Tennessee, is that they are now burning 80%solid waste for fuel and selling steam at $1.50 per thousand

Waverly School Board

Waverly, Neb. The votes are in and the Waverly School District board members have been chosen, but I believe the letter from "Concerned Parent" did three of the candidates a disservice.

All six of the citizens who were running for school board are well qualified, thinking people who would have put forth maximum efforts if elected, but because three of them are teachers or former teachers, "Concerned Parent" did not feel they should have a place in the management of the system. All six candidates could have made worthy contributions to the board, for they are recognized as strong-minded individuals, capable of making decisions intelligently, objectively and ultimately in the best interests of the students.

I hope that "Concerned Parent's" letter is not implying that teachers should remain silent when it comes to politics or any other important cause, because it is every citizen's right and responsibility to become involved.

All of the candidates running for office had one special interest - the weltare of the children. Those elected will work with those continuing in office for that same interest. As a parent of children attending Wavery's excellent schools and as a teacher in the system and a member of the professional associations, that is my special interest, too.

Is Corn

The Lincoln Star 5

Saturday, Nov. 9, 1974

Sugar can be derived from corn and sold to consumers cheaper than the current 50-cent per pound cost of beet or cane sugar, according to a University of Nebraska doctor of chemical engineering. Dr. William E. Scheller said in a bushel of corn to make 34 pounds of sugar. Corn was selling for less than $3.50 per bushel Scheller said the process was not feasible a year ago when the price of table sugar was as low as

Friday there was enough starch

current prices made the process feasible A processing plant could be built, he said, if investors believe the price of sugar will stay

10 cents a pound, but he said

The sugar that would come from the plant would be slightly different from ordinary table sugar. Chemists call sugar that comes from beets or cane sucrose. He said sugar from corn is called dextrose because it has a slightly different chemical make-up. But he said it could be refined to a white crystalline form which would taste like table sugar.

Dextrose is used as a sweetner in some foods such as candy bars, he said. The process of making sugar from corn starch is already widely used in the manufacture of grain alcohol. Scheller said the only innovation necessary would be a process to refine the corn sugar into a white crystalline form.

The corn sugar comes out of the starch conversion process mixed with corn oil and fiber. Scheller said he could develop a feasible process for removing most of the sugar from the mixture, leaving animal feed and protein for human consumption as by-products.

He said he would need research money to determine the exact cost of the process.

The plan is being promoted by a Nebraska state senator, Orval Keyes of Springfield, who trades actively in the corn markets.

They were industrious enterprising, frugal and seem to have started fair for domestic peace and a happy competence. Yet in an evil hour they yielded to the delusive bait of temptation—they were in haste to be rich. They turned aside from the quiet paths of an honest industry and domestic tranquility and plunged into a dissipating and iniquitous business, which, while it seemed to promise wealth and future independence, it was but the sure precursor to ruin and dis grace: or the same ruinous result was arrived at no less effectively by the violation of The Holy Day! How awfully in the history of families is the truth sometimes illustrated that God will "POUR OUT HIS FURY UPON THE FAMILIES THAT CALL NOT ON HIS NAME." "THEY THAT DESPISE ME SHALL BE LIGHTLY ESTEEMED." Examples crowd upon us from every quarter: Every neighborhood furnishes them! quarter; Every neighborhood furnishes them! In Numbers 32:23 God says: "BE SURE YOUR SINS WILL FIND YOU OUT!" In Deuteronomy 32:29 God says: "O THAT

Also in Exodus 34:14: "FOR THOU SHALT WORSHIP NO OTHER GOD: FOR THE LORD, WHOSE NAME IS JEALOUS, IS A JEALOUS GOD." The histories of families not unfrequently furnish the most melancholy illustrations that family sins are visited by family afflictions, defections in parental restraint, by the insubordination and licentiousness of children, and extryagance, intemperance, or skepticism of parents; by immorality and profligancy in

HORN . . . 'gives away' building:

$5.2 Million Gift Is NWU Building

By DICK HOLMAN Star Staff Writer

Charles L. Horn proved Friday giving away $5.2 million

In dedicating the Nebraska Wesleyan University Classroom-Administration Building, the president of the donor, the Olin Foundation, first commended NWU President Vance D. Rogers and Sen. Carl T. Curtis for their work to attain the building.

Then the white-mustachioed Horn, 87, commended the "carpenters" for doing the real work on the 85,900-squarefoot building, and he formally gave it away, naming Wesleyan the owner.

'Take Care Of It!'

"Now, heavens!" Horn cracked, half tongue-in-cheek, "I want you to take damn good care of it!"

Horn, a Minneapolis business executive, kept 500 students, faculty, administrators and dignitaries in stitches by departing frequently with irreverent remarks. The Olin Foundation of New York City agreed to build, furnish and equip the $2.8 million building only "after we became acquainted with the school and liked it," Horn said.

The foundation also paid $2.4 million for the Olin Hall of Science, occupied by the NWU physics, biology and chemistry departments in 1969.

Public Tours Sunday

After 18 months under construction, the three-story Classroom-Administration Building will be open for public tours from 2-5 p.m. Sunday. It will be available for use in January.

Backed by 100 berobed faculty members. Rogers dedicated it "to the welfare of students" and teaching and learning.

Noting that "private industry put the money up" for the building "from their earnings," Horn said the Olin Foundation philosophy is to provide buildings and equipment for education, "the best advancement we can make."

The building will provide space for the departments of psychology, business administration and economics, education, history, political science, and sociology-anthropologysocial work, plus the entire administrative structure of the NWU campus.

The Lincoln architectural firm Clark & Enersen-Hamersky-Schlaebitz-Burroughs & Thomsen designed the building, built by Kinger Construction Co.

The 900 districts "should be included in K-12 districts so that all would share in the decisionmaking and the financial support of all their students," she said. Nebraska now has 1,242 school districts, more than any other

With consolidation, Mrs. Fowler said the Legislature and the governor could create education and taxation bills "adaptable to districts that were truly under local control."

"Priority No. 2 should be the immediate study of which property is being taxed for school purposes," she said.

"Property that has sent the owner into near bankruptcy. such as cattle have done this year, and machinery that tilled ground for crops that were ruined by the drought, is the property that is now paying for over 70% of the school costs. That is not equal taxation."

Board member R. Jerry Hargitt of Omaha said members must sell the philosophy that Nebraska needs equity in education. Education Commissioner Cecil Stanley agreed, saying voters considered LB772 a tax bill instead of an education bill.

"It's time to start talking about local responsibility instead

Lincoln Board member Frank of local control," Mrs. Fowler said, "and state responsibility instead of state control.

"There is no intent from this (board) level at all" to erode district residents' local control; besides, she charged, most districts "shirk the responsibility" of providing equal educational programs.

Holdrege Schools Supt. Allan Warner told board members, "We have sort of allowed ourselves to become trapped" by explaining how state aid works. Much as a doctor describes only the benefits of surgery to a patient - and not the surgical techniques — Warner said the board must "attempt to see the philosophy" of equal educational opportunities.

How a state aid bill operates "should be left up to the state board and the Legislature to see it is funded as equitably as possible," Warner said.

Congress, in the Education Amendments of 1974, approved authorization of $100,000 to $1 million to assist states in planning equalization programs. But the actual appropriations have not yet been approved.

The board agreed the governor, the Legislature and the Education Department should apply jointly for the funds, should they be approved.

Mrs. Fowler also agreed with DeWitt board member Willard Waldo's suggestion that the board should investigate the school district and taxation questions "with or without federal money."

"We have to recognize there will be some differences in size" of districts, Mrs. Fowler said. but decried the "ridiculous" variances that now exist, from one student-one teacher districts

Hargitt suggested larger districts can more easily accommodate excellence in teachers

Board members, meeting in Lincoln, unanimously decided that during fiscal 1975, its $417 million, or 5%, of Nebraska's Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds for vocational assistance may be used for student training allowances.

But the motion stipulated that in future CETA agreements with the State Department of Labor. the Education Department's 5% funds will be used only for vocational education and not for trainee stipends.

missioner Cecil Stanley to obtain the state attorney general's opinion on the legality of spending federal funds in Nebraska Penal Complex rehabilitation programs; and then to request further guidance from the Legislative Council and Executive Committee.

LB1053 provides that the state spend $582,000 in federal correctional rehabilitation funds, but Education Department officials interpret federal law to say that some of the funds might be spent illigally. Eligibility Question

ministrative Services has insisted all penal complex inmates are eligible for the funds, whereas federal law stipulates they be used only for physically or mentally handicapped inmates. Moreover, some of the funds are being used to continue convicts' rehabilitation once they are released from the penitentiary, another practice under question.

Stanley said if the Education Department's division of rehabilitation services spends the $582,000 illegally, "We will have a $200,000-$300,000 audit exception and the Legislature will get caught with trying to pay it off."

State Corrections Director Joseph Vitek has accused Garry Cartwright of the Education Department of jeopardizing penitentiary work release and skills training programs by refusing to approve the federal funds for them, which Stanley said has been done.

Whatever Happened To Saturday Night?

Story By Linda Olig

If you're like most of us - with the exception of those whose jobs are to entertain, enlighten, feed or protect us - you now have two days of freedom, to do whatever you please.

Those weekend days traditionally are set aside for fun - with a capital F.

But what ever happened to fun?

Americans seem to be on a treadmill in search of that big, elusive neon sign in the sky that continually flashes "FUN HERE!

Too many of us have a culturally-conditioned notion of what fun should be, and we try to structure our free time accordingly, agreed several of those whose business it is to investigate the ways and wherefores of people's actions.

Fun, pleasure, enjoyment in life have been important to man and woman since Day One. They have written about it, talked about it, taken part in

But the approach to fun may have changed with the advent of "sophisticated" society in which persons can find many material things to provide fun for them, in which they have more time for fun, theorized the professional psychologists who spoke from personal experiences and observations, noting that little research has been devoted to the subject.

"Why do you suppose the show 'The Waltons' is so popular?" asked Dr. Brian Sarata of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Psychology Department.

Then he answered his own question: "It captures just plain good feeling amongst people that most of us don't have because we are running after all the neat things we think people should be doing

"Too often, fun and recreation seem to be defined as escaping or a reward for work, for having gotten through the week," he said. "That's a negative definition to begin with.'

'A greater need to have fun "exists today, said Dr. Jim Cole, Sarata's associate at UNL, because "there is more time designed . . . to have fun."

"Most clinical psychologists would say people who go in search for fun rather than just kind of living life would be the least likely to enjoy it," said Too many of us have a culturally-conditioned notion of what fun should be, and we try to structure our free time accordingly . . .

"People try to have fun like other people have fun - they think," observed Mrs. Idella Schreckinger, counselor and social worker for Family Services. "That is very dissatisfying in the long run, it doesn't come from within themselves."

Many persons in search of fun attempt to emulate "simplified" concepts of having fun, many of which are introduced to them through the media, said Dr. Clay Rivers, UNL psychologist.

Advertisements which "portray romantic interludes so great life never lives up to it ... define fun as doing exotic things and owning exotic things and going to exotic places," Sarata said. So, when a person "just goes out and has a beer with friends, he compares it to an unreal thing.

'When I was a student, having pizza and beer with other students and their wives was really cool," Sarata admitted. "Now I'm working it's not as great as ordering chocolate mousse for my wife and stewed prunes for myself - or owning an exotic car." It does not measure up to preconceived expectations, he said.

"For many people, pleasure, happiness, a sense of satisfaction and enjoyment to life are easily found in the circumstances they find themselves in," Cole said. "Others constantly seek pleasure; it is always beyond their grasp . . . for them, the demand to attain pleasure is much more of an issue."

"I am very shocked about how narrow people's interests sometimes are," said Mrs. Schreckinger. "Even educated people don't have knowledge of where they can go to get enjoyment.'

Some can find pure enjoyment "in a hobby and just playing in the dirt like I like to do in the spring and the fall," she laughed. "But doing that can be an annoyance to some people . . . fun is such a per-

"We fail to use our creative abilities" by being 'too serious about having fun . . . by seeing fun as existing principally outside ourselves," said George Scofield, psychiatric social worker for the Lincoln-Lancaster County Mental Health Center. "We don't know how to use our free time.'

'We tend to equate pleasure with material things, perhaps to an extreme in our country - like having a Cadillac rather than a Chevrolet," Cole

"The net effect is not as great as the glitter promised," he said.

Thus, many are enslaved seeking fun through automobiles, boats, cruises other material things rather than finding it within themselves, their surroundings, their interests, resources at their fingertips, Mrs. Schreckinger said.

Others become enslaved to "the bottle . . . or the medicine cabinet" when all else has failed,

"Part of having fun is putting yourself into it," said Rivers. "But there are not as many opportunities to put yourself into fun anymore," he said, lamenting the passage of such projects as group sings and other participatory enterprises and the upsurge of "passive participation."

"Part of our enjoyment comes out of doing things," he added.

"To live life and enjoy life means we have to work at it some."

They're After 'Good Homes'

For Their Jewelry

By GRACIA McANDREW Star Staff Writer

It's not easy being a mother, wife and parttime custom jeweler, as Brenda Gingles and Judith Goeke very well know.

However, the two women — both mothers of very young children - take pride in their work and consider it an occupation, not a hobby, which requires talent, training, dedication and self-discipline.

Both women will be featured artists at The Home Gallery, 2528 C St., until Dec. 15 and will be special guests at the Gallery's 2 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday reception.

"We feel very strongly about our work. We think of it as an occupation," explained Ms. Goeke. "It is part-time right now because we are raising families, but we have gone to school and invested several hundred dollars in equipment.

'We do it now and then," Ms. Gingles added, "but it is a serious now and then."

Although they work mostly in sterling silver, they also use copper, brass and pewter and a number of techniques such as lost wax easting, wire construction, forging and fabrica-

"We use a good many more techniques than most other artists we can think of." Ms. Gingles pointed out, adding that even though each has a studio in her home, the two women often work and exhibit jewelry together, because they "complement each other.

'We share ideas and tricks of the trade," she continued, "but usually the end product comes out completely different from what the other person would have done.'

Likewise, because each piece of jewelry is completely handmade, several items may be similar but "all are one of a kind," the women said. Also the two jewelers make everything, including catches and chains, from scratch.

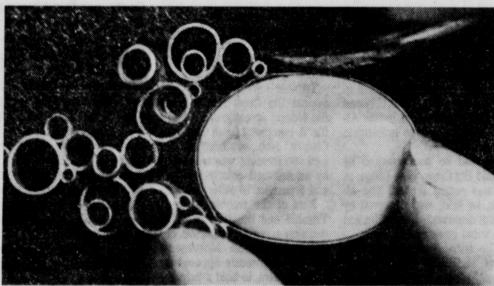

Many people are impressed by the jewelry, however, most don't realize the time, hazards and difficulties involved in producing the items, they said

Since it is often necessary to work with heat, the women pointed out that one could easily catch his or her clothes on fire. Also, Ms. Gingles was faced with the reality of another occupational hazard when she nearly amputated her thumb several months ago.

In addition, "there is constantly a shortage of metal," Ms. Gingles added. "With the economy fluctuating and the precious metal situation, requests for metal are often back ordered.

"Also, waiting two weeks for metal when you already have an idea, creates problems."

exhibition item, the pair not only works in preparation for shows and sales, but they also accept work on a commission basis.

"The exhibition pieces are those that people wouldn't comfortably wear everyday," Ms. Gingles explained. "Jewelry is a very personal thing to make and to buy. If a ring doesn't fit your personality, you won't buy it.

"I hate to see someone wear a piece of my jewelry that is not really them. It hurts my soul. It really does.'

Although commission work is a challenge, it is a nerve-racking business, according to the women who must take another person's idea into consideration and hopefully interpret and transform it into an acceptable piece of jewelry.

"But even then it hurts just a little bit when it is gone," Ms. Gingles said.

Writing 'Dear Jane' Letter Not Advisable

DEAR ABBY: It all started last summer when a very pretty but shallow 18-year-old girl came here from Italy to visit her aunt. We were fixed up on a blind date. I am 19.

Abby, if it is possible for a girl to rape a boy, that is what happened to me. I mean, she was really eager. We dated all summer.

She went back to Italy and we corresponded. Then she started writing things like, "Nothing else matters to me in this world but you." Also, "I can't wait until we can be married." (I swear to God I never mentioned marriage to her once.)

I tried to break off the correspondence, but she wrote to me anyway. Now she writes that she is coming here to live with her aunt for a YEAR! That's the last thing I want. I want to write and tell her if she's coming to be near me, she shouldn't, because I have a lot of college ahead of me yet. I hate to sound like a heel, but I don't love this girl and I wish she would leave me

She told me that when she was 17 she had a broken love affair and tried to commit suicide and spent three months in a mental hospital, so I have to be careful how I handle her.

Please help me. DESPERATE IN N.Y.

DEAR DES: With her history of emotional instability, do not send her a "Dear Jane" letter. but if she does, let her down gently and ease her out of your life as subtly as possible.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago, I moved in with an older couple, Jimmy and Laura. They treated me like a daughter and helped me get my head together. I was pretty messed up. I feel I owe them a lot.

Six months ago, I got my own apartment, and three months later I began seeing a lot of this man I work with. I have fallen in love with him. He moved in with me last week and wants to marry me when his divorce is final. I think I love him enough to marry him, but I'm not sure yet. One of

DEAR DES: With her history of emotional instability, do not send her a "Pear Jame" letter. You can't stop her from coming, the problems is that he is twice but if she does, let her down gently and ease her out of your life as subtly as possible.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago, I moved in with an older couple, Jimmy and Laura. They treated me like a daughter and helped me get my head together. I was pretty messed up. I feel I owe them a lot.

Six months ago, I got my own apartment, and three months later I began seeing a lot of this man I work with. I have fallen in love with him. He moved in with me last week and wants to marry me when his divorce is final. I think I love him enough to marry him, but I'm not sure yet. One of as old as I am. I invited Jimmy and Laura over to meet my guy. They told me privately that they think I am looking for a father and I need to see a shrink. I feel I owe it to them to take their advice. But then if I do. wouldn't it show that I am not sure about my feelings for my guy?

DEAR D.: Yes. But it's nothing to be ashamed of. That takes intelligence! It's a lot easier to make a mistake than remedy it. Get into therapy, and stay single until you are sure of your feelings.

DEAR ABBY: I made the owner into near bankruptcy, such as cattle have done this year, and machinery that tilled ground for crops that were ruined by the drought, is the property that is now paying for over 70% of the school costs. That is not equal taxation." Board member R. Jerry Hargitt of Omaha said members must sell the philosophy that Nebraska needs equity in education. Education Commissioner Cecil Stanley agreed, saying voters considered LB772 a tax bill instead of an education bill.

"It's time to start talking about local responsibility instead

Lincoln Board member Frank of local control," Mrs. Fowler said, "and state responsibility instead of state control.

ly agreed with Mrs. Fowler to Holdrege Schools Supt. Allan Warner told board members. 'We have sort of allowed ourselves to become trapped" by explaining how state aid works. Much as a doctor describes only the benefits of surgery to a patient - and not the surgical techniques - Warner said the board must "attempt to see the philosophy" of equal educational opportunities.

How a state aid bill operates "should be left up to the state board and the Legislature to see it is funded as equitably as possible," Warner said.

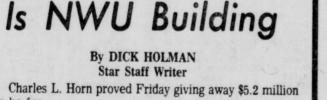

Congress, in the Education Amendments of 1974, approved authorization of $100,000 to $1 million to assist states in planning equalizaion programs. But the actual appropriations have not yet been approved.

The board agreed the governor, the Legislature and the Education Department should apply jointly for the funds, should they be approved.

Mrs. Fowler also agreed with DeWitt board member Willard Waldo's suggestion that the board should investigate the school district and taxation questions "with or without federal money.

"We have to recognize there will be some differences in size' of districts, Mrs. Fowler said, but decried the "ridiculous" variances that now exist, from one student-one teacher districts

Hargitt suggested larger districts can more easily accommodate excellence in teachers and programs.

'Take Care Of It!' "Now, heavens!" Horn cracked, half tongue-in-cheek, "I want you to take damn good care of it!"

Horn, a Minneapolis business executive, kept 500 students, faculty, administrators and dignitaries in stitches by departing frequently with irreverent remarks.

The Olin Foundation of New York City agreed to build. furnish and equip the $2.8 million building only "after we became acquainted with the school and liked it." Horn said. The foundation also paid $2.4 million for the Olin Hall of Science, occupied by the NWU physics, biology and

State Ed Board OKs Funds For Students The Nebraska State Board of the state attorney general's opi-

Education Friday reversed its October ruling that federal manpower funds it administers may be used only for educational pur-

Board members, meeting in Lincoln, unanimously decided that during fiscal 1975, its $417 million, or 5%, of Nebraska's Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds for vocational assistance may be used for student training allowances.

But the motion stipulated that in future CETA agreements with the State Department of Labor, the Education Department's 5% funds will be used only for vocational education and not for trainee stipends.

Education Office Suggestion

The compromise action resulted after talks with U.S. Office of Education officials, who suggested it, because the Labor Department would have been required to revise its approved CETA statewide comprehensive funding plan.

CETA replaces the Manpower Development Training Act, which was phased out, and CETA programs begin this month through Nebraska community colleges.

The board also stipulated that not more than half of its 5% funds for fiscal 1975 ($208.5 million) be used for training allowances. In other business, the board directed Education Commissioner Cecil Stanley to obtain nion on the legality of spending federal funds in Nebraska Penal Complex rehabilitation programs; and then to request further guidance from the Legislative Council and

LB1053 provides that the state spend $582,000 in federal correctional rehabilitation funds, but Education Department officials interpret federal law to say that some of the funds might be spent illigally. Eligibility Question

The Department of Administrative Services has insisted all penal complex inmates are eligible for the funds, whereas federal law stipulates they be used only for physically or mentally handicapped inmates. Moreover, some of the funds are being used to continue convicts' rehabilitation once they are released from the penitentiary, another practice under question.

Stanley said if the Education Department's division of rehabilitation services spends the $582,000 illegally, "We will have a $200,000-$300,000 audit exception and the Legislature will get caught with trying to pay it off."

State Corrections Director Joseph Vitek has accused Garry Cartwright of the Education Department of jeopardizing penitentiary work release and skills training programs by refusing to approve the federal funds for them, which Stanley said has been done.

Students nationwide are returning in droves to on-campus housing, reversing the dormitory downswing of the past few years in a flight to avoid high prices. George Merrill said Friday in Lincoln.

The national president of the Association of College and University Housing Officers (ACUHO), Merrill, of Los Angeles, said campuses are providing increased benefits to dorm occupants, but the influx is also causing increased concerns and problems.

They include rising operating costs in housing and food service, resulting in higher costs to students, said Merril, chief of auxiliary and business serviced for the California state college system of 290,000 students. Alcohol Use

Housing officers must also deal more with alcohol use, especially in states where the age of majority has been lowered to apply to residence hall occupants, he said. But he noted use of narcotics and marijuana generally is down.

George Merrill

Some campuses, he said, are putting three students in twostudent rooms, to accommodate unexpected demand, and security for both persons and property commands increased attention.

In a nationwide survey he conducted, Merrill said campuses received more residence hall applications than ever, had fewer "no-shows," more "walkon requests" after school began and fewer people trying to break signed housing contracts.

And the former school superintendent noted that more juniors, seniors and graduate students are electing to live on campus instead of off.

"Off-campus housing is suffering more from the standpoint of inflation than we (campuses) are," he said, in the squeeze on more building because of an average 2% increase per month in construction costs.

Little Being Built

Virtually no student housing is being built on any campus in the U.S., because of the loss of federal support and the tight money market. And campuses are "hedging on future building," he said, "not knowing what future enrollments will

But he cautioned, "I hope none of you are short sighted by holding back money for renovation and upkeep.'

Merril spoke to more than 300 ACUHO members from eight Midwestern states and Canada at their 1974 conference.

Is Stalled, Ends Mixed New York (AP) — The stock

market, stalled by an impending coal strike and doubts over 1975 economic prospects, finished mixed in moderate trading

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials slipped 4.77 to 677.16, and the New York Stock exchange's composite commonstock index lost .11 to 39.63.

In contrast, advances outnumbered declines 746 to 596 among the 1,780 issues traded on the Big Board.

NYSE volume slowed slightly to 15.89 million shares.

But analysts said disappointment over weekly Federal Reserve statistics issued after Thursday's close took the edge off the enthusiasm.

The data showed rising business borrowing at leading New York banks and the second weekly decline in a row in the nation's money supply.

Those figures tended to dampen hopes for easier money and a resurgent economy next spring and summer, brokers noted.

In addition, investors had to contend with an expected nationwide walkout of coal workers over the weekend. Negotiations toward a new contract continued Friday between the coal industry and the United Mine Workers union.

Occidental Petroleum, the day's most-active issue, jumped 1% to 13% and made a new 1974 high. Analysts noted that the stock had been recommended by a major financial advisory service and at least one large brokerage house in recent days.

Students Nationwide Returning To Dorms

Students nationwide are returning in droves to on-campus housing, reversing the dormitory downswing of the past few years in a flight to avoid high prices, George Merrill said Friday in Lincoln.

The national president of the Association of College and University Housing Officers (ACUHO), Merrill, of Los Angeles, said campuses are providing increased benefits to dorm occupants, but the influx is also causing increased concerns and problems.

They include rising operating costs in housing and food service, resulting in higher costs to students, said Merril, chief of auxiliary and business serviced for the California state college system of 290,000 students. Alcohol Use

Housing officers must also deal more with alcohol use, especially in states where the age of majority has been lowered to apply to residence hall occupants, he said. But he noted use of narcotics and marijuana generally is down.

George Merrill

Some campuses, he said, are putting three students in twostudent rooms, to accommodate unexpected demand, and security for both persons and property commands increased attention.

In a nationwide survey he conducted, Merrill said campuses received more residence hall applications than ever, had fewer "no-shows," more "walkon requests" after school began and fewer people trying to break signed housing contracts.

And the former school superintendent noted that more juniors, seniors and graduate students are electing to live on campus instead of off.

Virtually no student housing is being built on any campus in the U.S., because of the loss of federal support and the tight money market. And campuses are "hedging on future building," he said, "not knowing what future enrollments will

Michael Holland NCH executive director, said the conference marks the end of the first year for the project, which was initiated Nov. 1, 1973.

Objective Stated

The committee's objective, he said, is to bring the academic humanists in contact with the adult public of Nebraska. Projects developed in communities across the state allow these professionals in the fields of history, literature, language, philosophy and the "valueoriented" social sciences to get outside their institutions and deal with contemporary issues, said Holland;

Holland said one of the group's biggest problems in its first year has been a "high degree of invisibility."

Prices got some support early in the day from a new prime-rate cut, from 1034 to 101/2, initiated by New York's First National City Bank, and matched by others in Chicago and Los Angeles.

But analysts said disappointment over weekly Federal Reserve statistics issued after Thursday's close took the edge off the enthusiasm. The data showed rising business borrowing at leading New York banks and the second weekly decline in a row in the nation's money supply.

Those figures tended to dampen hopes for easier money and a resurgent economy next spring and summer, brokers noted.

In addition, investors had to contend with an expected nationwide walkout of coal workers over the weekend. Negotiations toward a new contract continued Friday between the coal industry and the United Mine Workers union.

Occidental Petroleum, the day's most-active issue, jumped 1% to 13% and made a new 1974 high. Analysts noted that the stock had been recommended by a major financial advisory ser-, vice and at least one large brokerage house in recent days.

Lykes-Youngstown climbed 1/4 to 15 in active trading. The company reported plans to buy back an additional one million shares of its stock.

Huskers Hoping Forecast Doesn't Result In 'Mud Bowl'

By BOB OWENS Star Sports Editor

Ames, la. - Nebraska's Cornhuskers were committed to play in the Sugar Bowl football game earlier this week.

Right now, though, they're hoping they don't run into a "Mud Bowl" Saturday when they oppose tough Iowa State in a Big Eight Conference football game.

The contest, with a 1:30 p.m. kickoff, will be the final one on ancient Clyde William Field, built 60 years ago and named for the Cyclones' first athletic director.

It has been the scene of many a classic football battle, and some not so classic because it still has a natural grass surface that seems to hold moisture like there was no escape route for rain water.

This week's weather, however, has been dry and the way the sky looked late Friday afternoon the game could be played in perfect weather conditions.

A chance of showers, however, most of the day Saturday is Catching the ball at the 'Bolts 15 yard line, Janicek hauled two Pius X defenders into the endzone from seven vards out.

Aquinas coach Denny Kirby nixed a shot at a tie and elected to try for the win.

Hilger, the Aquinas offensive workhorse, got the call on a dive over the right side of the line and Sullivan stopped the 165-pound senior just shy of the goalline o a superb second effort.

This year probably will be no exception since Coach Earle Bruce has honed his Cyclone attack both offensively and defensively well enough that Oklahoma had to struggle to come out with a 28-10 triumph here last week. Iowa State, which had used veer and power-I offensive for-

Coaches Capsules

Nebraska's Tom Osborne: "A muddy field can be a great equalizer, but Iowa State has been playing real well lately, so who needs an equalizer? If it's muddy it will be muddy for both teams, and I just hope we can play better than they do."

Iowa State's Earle Bruce: "I sure hope we are ready to play Saturday because Nebraska is another top 10 team. Offensively they have an excellent line led by their center, Rik Bonness, and in David Humm they have one of the best quarterbacks in collegiate ranks. Defensively they have two top linebackers in Tom Ruud and Bob Nelson and a very good tackle in Ron Pruitt."

Bruce said his club used the different formation to run right at Oklahoma's strength, which is the middle of the line. Husker coach Tom Osborne expects the same strategy Saturday.

By using the wishbone we knew we were running right at their strength, but their pursuit is so good," Bruce said.

Nebraska has had trouble the past two Saturdays with teams that ran right at them with their fullback. That could be why Osborne has decided to give Willie Thornton a try at middle guard in a starting role in place of John Lee.

Lee has had some good games, but Thornton has also played well when he was in there," Osborne said. "We're going to give him a shot at it to see how he does."

One other defensive change has Mark Heydorf at monster in place of injured Wonder Monds, who may see some action despite a sprained ankle.

Offensively, the Huskers will have Chuck Malito at split end in place of Ritch, Bahe, who is recovering from a hamstring muscle injury.

Bruce figures the key to ISU hopes is stopping Husker quarterback Dave Humm, who leads the Big Eight in passing and total offense, NU's only losses have been in games in which Humm has missed part of the action because of injuries.

"He's the outstanding quarterback in the country," Bruce said of Humm. "They go buzzing along when he's in there. Humm does an outstanding job at picking your defense to pieces.

it's possible Tom Mason may see quite a bit of action. In fact, Mason so impressed Oklahoma assistant coach that he said after last week's game, "I think if I was Earle Bruce I'd play him a lit-

Victory is important for the Huskers in their quest for at least a share of the Big Eight championship. They're 3-1 in the league and face Kansas State and Oklahoma in Lincoln in the high for the old stadium, which was 36,690 in 1972 when the Huskers and Cyclones played to a 23-23 tie. ISU hasn't beaten Nebraska since 1960.

When it's finished, it will have an artificial surface and there'll be no worry of a "Mud Bowl."

Tim Hager's pass to Ron Rech for a two-point conversion with 2:25 left to go in the fourth quarter gave Southeast a Northeast in an intra-city battle before 4,834 fans at Seacrest Field Friday night.

The two-point play capped a 65-yard scoring drive led by Hager, who completed six passes in eight attempts on the march. Hager had an outstanding game with 18 of 29 passes completed for 196 vards.

Grand Island - Senior running back Mike Washington and Uduak Udofia led Lincoln High to its first Trans-Nebraska football win as it downed Grand Island here Friday night, 28-22.

Washington scored twice for the Links and ran for 92 yards while Udofia collected 78 yards.

After running up a 21-7 lead early in the third quarter it appeared as if the Links would give coach Jerry Ball his first winning season since taking over the LHS reigns three years ago.

But following a 95-yard kickoff return by senior Gary Downs, the Islanders moved 64 yards on 11 plays to the Links' nine where Scott Fischer a scored his second touchdown of the night to bring the score to 21-15.

Just three minutes later, Grand Island ground out another 56 rushing yards to the Links' one where Gary Beran dove in to give Grand Island a 22-21 lead.

But the Links retaliated on the next possession when on the first play from scrimmage, senior quarterback Ralph Kuwamoto hit end Mark Rohnert on a 37yard pass.

The Links then drove to the three on five running plays where Washington scored to give the Links the winning score.

The Links' Downs took the opening kickoff of the second half and ran 95 yards to put the Links into what appeared to be a comfortable lead, 21-7.

"When they went ahead, 22-21, I thought we were snaked," said Ball. "We've been trying to win the sixth game for three weeks." "It was an important game for me to come back here and win," he added, referring to the fact he was a former Islander player. Lincoln High closed with a 6-4 record while Grand Island ended

Ames, Ia. - Nebraska's Cornhuskers were committed to play in the Sugar Bowl football game earlier this week.

Right now, though, they're hoping they don't run into a "Mud Bowl" Saturday when they oppose tough Iowa State in a Big Eight Conference football game.

The contest, with a 1:30 p.m. kickoff, will be the final one on ancient Clyde William Field, built 60 years ago and named for the Cyclones' first athletic director.

It has been the scene of many a classic football battle, and some not so classic because it still has a natural grass surface that seems to hold moisture like there was no escape route for

This week's weather, however, has been dry and the way the sky looked late Friday afternoon the game could be played in perfect weather conditions.

The Huskers want it dry to help quarterback Dave Humm and his bevy of pass receivers get them rolling toward their seventh victory in nine games. Oddsmakers favor them by two touchdowns, but the two teams have waged tight battles here through the years.

Lincoln Pius X, the state's No. 1-ranked Class B football team, assured itself of back to back state football championships with a game saving tackle by Rick Sullivan on a two-point conversion try with 13 seconds left for a pressure-packed 7-6 win over David City Aquinas Friday night at the Thunderbolts' field.

Holding the ball and a 7-0 lead with 1:28 remaining in the game, Pius X quarterback Mitch Ohnoutka optioned to his right for a 15 yard gain to the Aquinas 22 yard line. But a jarring tackle knocked the ball loose and the Monarch's Tim Hilger recovered.

With only :53 showing on the scoreboard, Aquinas moved the ball 78 yards in four plays, reminiscent of the 'Bolts tie with Omaha Gross last season.

The drive took only 40 seconds with Monarch quarterback Richard Behrns hitting halfback Larry Janicek for a 35 yard scoring strike.

Catching the ball at the 'Bolts 15 yard line, Janicek hauled two Pius X defenders into the endzone from seven yards out.

Aquinas coach Denny Kirby nixed a shot at a tie and elected to try for the win.

Hilger, the Aquinas offensive workhorse, got the call on a dive over the right side of the line and Sullivan stopped the 165-pound senior just shy of the goalline o a superb second effort.

"I was knocked down," the smiling Sullivan said in the victory lockerroom. "Somebody came and hit me and the guy let me go so I got back up and made Nebraska's Tom Osborne: "A muddy field can be a great equalizer, but Iowa State has been playing real well lately, so who needs an equalizer? If it's muddy it will be muddy for both teams, and I just hope we can play better than they do.'

Iowa State's Earle Bruce: "I sure hope we are ready to play Saturday because Nebraska is another top 10 team. Bruce said his club used the different formation to run right at Oklahoma's strength, which is the middle of the line. Husker coach Tom Osborne expects the same strategy Saturday.

"By using the wishbone we knew we were running right at their strength, but their pursuit is so good," Bruce said.

Nebraska has had trouble the past two Saturdays with teams that ran right at them with their fullback. That could be why Osborne has decided to give Willie Thornton a try at middle guard in a starting role in place of John Lee.

"Lee has had some good games, but Thornton has also played well when he was in there," Osborne said. "We're going to give him a shot at it to see how he does.

One other defensive change has Mark Heydorf at monster in place of injured Wonder Monds, who may see some action despite a sprained ankle.

Offensively, the Huskers will have Chuck Malito at split end in place of Ritch, Bahe, who is recovering from a hamstring

Bruce figures the key to ISU hopes is stopping Husker quarterback Dave Humm, who leads the Big Eight in passing and total offense, NU's only losses have been in games in which Humm has missed part of the action because of injuries.

"He's the outstanding quarterback in the country," Bruce said of Humm. "They go buzzing along when he's in there. Humm does an outstanding job at picking your defense to Opposing Humm at quarterback will be Wayne Stanley, but it's possible Tom Mason may see quite a bit of action. In fact, Mason so impressed Oklahoma assistant coach that he said after last week's game, "I think if I was Earle Bruce I'd play him a lit-

Bellevue Gals Pace Qualifying

By CHUCK SINCLAIR Prep Sports Writer

Bellevue may make the Nebraska State High School Girl's Swimming Championships at East High no more than a repeat of the Metro-Conference meet in Omaha if Friday's qualifying performances are any indication.

The pre-meet favored Chieftains, who defeated runner-up Omaha Westside by more than 100 points in the Metro two weeks ago, have almost doubled Westside's 12 qualifiers after first day preliminaries.

With 23 individual qualifiers, Bellevue appears to have unbeatable depth. Trans-Nebraska and I-80 champion Lincoln East qualified 11 girls for Saturday's finals, followed by Omaha Marian and Lincoln Southeast, who each had 10 entrants in Saturday's events.

Bellevue's Renee Magee and Westside's Ann Watland lead individuals, each qualifying with top times in two different events. Magee lead times in the 200-IM and 100 backstroke while Watland posted the best marks in the 200 and 500 freestyle. Both Magee and Watland were double winners in their respective events in the Metro championships. Although Westside has qualified top times in three individual events and one relay

Northwest's Deb Graffentin. Bellevue's coach, Joan Heckel, looks for Saturday's finals to be close and exciting. Tomorrow should be a good finish," she said. "I was real pleased with the kids today and the times will drop tomorrow. Those were just qualifying times. It's a lot different in head to head competition.'

The personable Bellevue coach is certain her girls will be prepared mentally for the finals. My girls want a perfect season," Heckel said. The Chieftains have won all their dual and Willie Mays, who played baseball for 23 years, would have played a couple of more if the National League had adopted the designated butter rule.

'After I pinch hit for the pitcher," he said, "I was through for the day. If the National League had the DH rule, I could played every day as a hitter. That would have been great."

Clarence Gaston, lost by the Atlanta Braves in the expansion draft seven years ago, returned to the National League club. He was obtained from San Diego in exchange for reliever Danny Frisella.

Omaha - The Metro Conference football playoffs need a new name . . . something like the Underdog Bowl.

It happened again here Friday night. Fifth-ranked Omaha Burke shut down second-ranked Omaha Benson's high-powered offense for a 6-0 upset win before 7,500 fans at UNO

It marked the third major upset in the Metro playoff in the last three years and fourth in the past five years. Last season, Omaha Westside shocked Creighton Prep and two years ago, Omaha Rummel hijacked Bellevue

Burke's brother rushing combination of Tim and Mike Wurth combined for 171 rushing yards to help give the Bulldogs a surprising 265-213 yard edge over the Bunnies in total offense.

Mike, a senior halfback,

Tim, a junior halfback, rushed

Brother Mike was at his best in the second half when Burke needed yardage most to control the ball and the clock. Mike rushed for 49 yards on 10 second half carries to finish with 69

While the Wurth brothers clicked with regularity, Burke's defense recorded its second shut out of the season. The Bulldogs bent on a number of occasions, but never broke down, yielding only 198 yards rushing and 15

Suspension Lifted

MIAMI (AP) — Miami Dolphins Coach Don Shula lifted the suspension against running back Mercury Morris Friday and said Morris would travel with the team and be ready to play Sun-

Morris worked out with the squad Friday afternoon and declared himself ready to play.

Thursday morning in a rift over his physical condition.

Morris, who has seen action in only two National Football League games this year because of neck and left knee injuries, missed therapy treatments the first three days this week.

He argued that he was ready to play and didn't need treatment. Shula disagreed and the suspension followed.

"I made it clear to Morris that there would be a fine for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of $200 a day and a heavy fine for actions detrimental to the team," Shula said Friday.

"This still will probably not amount to as much as the loss that would be represented to him should he miss a complete game check," Shula added. Morris draws $7,000 a week during the season.

Shula said he called Morris Friday morning and told him he had decided to reinstate him.

Morris, after Friday's workout, said he felt "100 per cent mentally ready to play and not quite 100 per cent physcially."

But he said he felt ready to contribute against New Orleans. Shula hasn't announced starters for the game but rookie running back Benny Malone, who has gained over 100 yards while starting in place of Morris the past two weeks, was expected to be one of them.

Morris, a six-year veteran, scored 23 touchdowns in helping the Dolphins win the Super Bowl the past two seasons.

A pinched nerve in his neck from last year kept him out of the first five exhibition games and he injured his knee in the final preseason game. He reinjured the knee on Sept. 29.

Girls' State Florida State Upsets Miami

MIAMI (AP) — Florida State snapped the nation's longest collegiate football losing streak at 20 games Friday night when s Leon Bright and Jeff Leggett ran for touchdowns and Joe Goldsmith scored on a 58-yard pass play for a stunning 21-14 upset of the University of Miami.

Bright, a freshman, broke off right tackle for 14 yards and a first-quarter touchdown. Goldsmith, a senior tight end, caught a 23-yard pass from quarterback Steve Mathieson and raced 25 yards to the end zone in the opening seconds of the second period.

Leggett's one-yard plunge after his 12-yard run to Miami's one in the fourth quarter was the decisive touchdown.

The Hurricanes got their scores on long fourth-quarter

Reserve quarterback Frank Glover threw a 57-yard pass to tight end Witt Beckman at Florida State's 20 at the start of the period and Beckman it in for the score, making it 14-7. The touchdown play covered 67

Then, after Leggett's touchdown, Glover lateralled to split end Steve Marcantonio, who lofted a pass to end Phil August for an 80-yard touchdown.

August straight-armed defensive back Joe Kamps at the 20 after taking the ball at the 30. Kamps made up for the play with four minutes remaining, however, as he intercepted a Glover pass at FSU's 25, killing another Miami drive.

touchdown with 1:50 remaining ly, the Bulldogs failed to turn the ball over themselves, a dramatic turnabout after eight Burke turnovers gave Benson a 32-7 win in the season opener for both teams last September.

Twice Benson all-stater Bobby Bass finished with a game leading 100 yards on 18 carries. He provided the spark which almost carried Benson to a tying touchdown in the closing moments until an interception at the goalline foiled the bid with 2:23 remaining.

Benson had marched from its own 34 yard line with 7:23 remaining to the Burke 10-yard line when disaster struck on a third down situation. Bass had carried five times in the drive for

Burke, after taking over on the interception, ran out the clock to preserve its eighth win in ten games and first Metro playoff win in its first appearance in the post-season contest.

"We won this one for our coaching staff. They've been working their rearends off all week, and we wanted it for them," Mike Wurth observed after the win. "Tim and I have been dreaming about this since last summer. This is the first big victory Burke has had in foot-

"We knew we had this game won when Leonard Bond told us what had happened the last two vears," sixth-year coach Larry Jacobsen joked after the game.

Bond is the long-time Omaha North coach, who resigned Thursday. Bond's team had upset Metro champion Westside last year and league titlist Rummel the year before. North also owned one of the two wins over Burke this fall.

"This was a good win for everyone - the school, the players and the coaching staff," Jacobsen said. "We put the wishbone in three years ago when the seniors were at the sophomore level. I guess that was the wise time.'

Burke outdowned Benson 16-15, and outrushed the Bunnies 244-198. Burke hit 2 of six passes for 21 yards and Benson 2 of 13 for 15 yards while suffering three interceptions. Benson entered the game with a 34-point

Benson, which was in the solid contention for its first Sunday Journal and Star state football championship, finished the season with a 7-1-1 record. Topranked Lincoln East will try to avoid a similar ambush Saturday night in its season finale against North Platte at Seacrest Field.

Underdog Burke Stuns Omaha Benson, 6-0

By RANDY YORK Prep Sports Editor

Omaha - The Metro Conference football playoffs need a new name something like the Underdog Bowl

It happened again here Friday night. Fifth-ranked Omaha Burke shut down second-ranked Omaha Benson's high-powered offense for a 6-0 upset win before 7,500 fans at UNO

It marked the third major upset in the Metro playoff in the last three years and fourth in the past five years Last season, Omaha Westside shocked Creighton Prep and two years ago, Omaha Rummel hijacked Bellevue

Burke's brother rushing combination of Tim and Mike Wurth combined for 171 rushing yards to help give the Bulldogs a surprising 265-213 yard edge over the Bunnies in total offense

Mike, a senior halfback.

Suspension Lifted

MIAMI (AP) - Miami Dolphins Coach Don Shula lifted the suspension against running back Mercury Morris Friday and said team and be ready to play Sunday at New Orleans.

squad Friday afternoon and declared himself ready to play

He had been suspended Thursday morning in a rift over his physical condition.

Morris, who has seen action in only two National Football League games this year because of neck and left knee injuries, missed therapy treatments the first three days this week.

He argued that he was ready to play and didn't need treatment Shula disagreed and the suspension followed

I made it clear to Morris that there would be a fine for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of $200 a day and a heavy fine for actions detrimental to the team." Shula said Friday.

"This still will probably not amount to as much as the loss that would be represented to him should he miss a complete game check," Shula added Morris draws $7,000 a week during the season

 Shula said he called Morris Friday morning and told him he jured the knee on Sept 29. had decided to reinstate him. Girls' State Florida State

The effort came on a fourthdown situation after Burke had been stopped for no gain on the previous two plays

Tim, a junior halfback, rushed for 47 first half yards and added 45 the second half to finish with a team-leading 92 vards He entered the game as the state's leading Class A rusher. Brother Mike was at his best in the second half when Burke needed yardage most to control the ball and the clock. Mike rushed for 49 yards on 10 second half carries to finish with 69 vards on 15 carries.

While the Wurth brothers clicked with regularity, Burke's defense recorded its second shut out of the season The Bulldogs bent on a number of occasions, but never broke down, yielding only 198 yards rushing and 15 passing

Burke also forced Benson into scored the game's only four turnovers More important-

"Second, four of the five running backs on the Dolphins have some type of injury and I felt that it would be in the best interests of the team to bring Mercury Morris back into action to help in any way he could."

Morris, after Friday's workout, said he felt "100 per cent mentally ready to play and not quite 100 per cent physcially "

But he said he felt ready to contribute against New Orleans. Shula hasn't announced starters for the game but rookie running back Benny Malone, who has gained over 100 yards while starting in place of Morris the past two weeks, was expected to be one of them Morris, a six-year veteran,

Upsets Miami

MIAMI (AP) — Florida State snapped the nation's longest collegiate football losing streak at 20 games Friday night when s Leon Bright and Jeff Leggett ran for touchdowns and Joe Goldsmith scored on a 58-vard pass play for a stunning 21-14 upset of the University of Miami.

Bright, a freshman, broke off right tackle for 14 yards and a first-quarter touchdown Goldsmith, a senior tight end, caught a 23-yard pass from quarterback Steve Mathieson and raced 25 vards to the end zone in the opening seconds of the second

Leggett's one-vard plunge after his 12-yard run to Miami's one in the fourth quarter was the decisive touchdown.

The Hurricanes got their scores on long fourth-quarter pass plays.

Reserve quarterback Frank Glover threw a 57-yard pass to tight end Witt Beckman at Florida State's 20 at the start of the period and Beckman it in forthe score, making it 14-7. The touchdown play covered 67 vards.

Then, after Leggett's touchdown. Glover lateralled to solit end Steve Marcantonio, who lofted a pass to end Phil August for an 80-vard touchdown

August straight-armed defensive back Joe Kamps at the 20 after taking the ball at the 30. Kamps made up for the play with four minutes remaining, however, as he intercepted a Glover pass at FSU's 25, killing another Miami drive.

touchdown with 1:50 remaining ly, the Bulldogs failed to turn the ball over themselves, a dramatic turnabout after eight Burke turnovers gave Benson a 32-7 win in the season opener for both teams last September

Twice Benson all-stater Bobby Bass finished with a game leading 100 yards on 18 carries. He provided the spark which almost carried Benson to a tying touchdown in the closing moments until an interception at the goalline foiled the bid with 2:23 remaining.

Benson had marched from its own 34 yard line with 7.23 remaining to the Burke 10-yard line when disaster struck on a third down situation. Bass had carried five times in the drive for 27 yards.

Burke, after taking over on the interception, ran out the clock to preserve its eighth win in ten games and first Metro playoff win in its first appearance in the post-season contest

"We won this one for our coaching staff They've been working their rearends off all week, and we wanted it for them." Mike Wurth observed after the win. "Tim and I have been dreaming about this since last summer. This is the first big victory Burke has had in foot-

"We knew we had this game won when Leonard Bond told us what had happened the last two years," sixth-year coach Larry Jacobsen joked after the game

Bond is the long-time Omaha North coach, who resigned Thursday. Bond's team had upset Metro champion Westside last year and league titlist Rummel the year before. North also owned one of the two wins over Burke this fall.

"This was a good win for everyone - the school, the players and the coaching staff," Jacobsen said "We put the wishbone in three years ago when the seniors were at the sophomore level I guess that was the wise time."

Burke outdowned Benson 16-15, and outrushed the Bunnies 244-198 Burke hit 2 of six passes for 21 yards and Benson 2 of 13 for 15 yards while suffering three interceptions. Benson entered the game with a 34-point

Benson, which was in the solid contention for its first Sunday Journal and Star state football championship, finished the season with a 7-1-1 record. Topranked Lincoln East will try to avoid a similar ambush Saturday night in its season finale against North Platte at Seacrest Field.

"People who stage various sporting events and promotions may use every gimmick," Stone said "But unless the public believes, it means nothing. "The Kentucky Derby has retain the public's confidence in this premise."

Ali To Start Boxing School

per game average.

Louisville (AP) Heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali plans to announce the establishment of a boxing school during his hometown visit.

After homecoming parade here Friday, Ali plans to stay in Kentucky for Saturday's University of Kentucky-Vanderbilt football game in Lexington and Saturday night's Kentucky Colonels basketball game in Louisville.

Ellie Brown, majority owner of the Colonels, said Thursday that she and Ali will make the announcement about the boxing school on Saturday night at the basketball game.

"The Kentucky Colonels will donate one-third of the net proceeds from Saturday night's game with the New York Nets to start the Muhammad Ali Boxing School," Mrs. Brown said.

She said the school, at the Chestnut Street YMCA in Louisville, "will recognize forever, for the young people from the area where he grew up, the contributions he has made to the sports world.

"It's very meaningful for them that they can identify and take price in his accomplishments," she said.

"We will go to Lexington Saturday afternoon where Muhammad will be introduced at half-time of the UK-Vanderbilt game," she added.

Spartans Eye Upset Of OSU

By Associated Press Having made their beds . . . and their bids . . . the bowl committees must now lie in them and hope their choices can survive an upsetting upset down the stretch of the college football season. The Rose Bowl, of course, has no such worries since it matches the champions of the Big Ten and Pacific-8 conferences. Ohio State, ranked No. 1 nationally in The Associated Press poll, is tied with fourthrated Michigan for the Big Ten lead, but Michigan State hopes to throw a monkey wrench in the path of their Nov.

23 showdown. "We're going after the Big Ten championship," says Michigan State Coach Denny Stolz, whose Spartans entertain Ohio State

Saturday. Even a sarcastic, "In what sport?" couldn't deter Stolz. "Don't give me any of that Big Two and Little Eight business, he snorted. Elsewhere, Oklahoma, ranked No. 2 but ineligible for postseason play, hosts Missouri with the winner assured of at least a share of the Big Eight lead; No. 3 Alabama, the Southeastern Conference leader bound for the Orange Bowl and a rematch with Notre Dame, meets disappointing Louisiana State on national television while Michigan visits

Fifth-ranked Texas A&M tries to take another step toward the Southwest Conference crown and a Cotton Bowl berth against Penn State with a road contest against Southern Methodist. Florida, rated sixth and headed for a Sugar Bowl date with Nebraska, meets Georgia in Jacksonville, Fla.

Seventh-ranked Penn State has a road date with Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl-bound North Carolina State. Notre Dame, ranked eighth, is idle but No. 9 Nebraska visits Iowa State and No. 10 Auburn tackles Mississippi State at Jackson, Miss. Auburn probably will wind up in the Gator Bowl. Mississippi State has nailed down a bid to the Sun Bowl.

The Pac-8 co-leaders, 11thranked Southern California and unranked Stanford, meet in Stanford Stadium while No. 12 Texas, the perennial SWC champ but currently one game behind the Texas Aggies, visits Baylor, which also is in the SWC running. The SWC runnerup is a likely Gator Bowl foe for Auburn.

Miami of Ohio, ranked 13th and bound for the Tangerine Bowl, can clinch its second consecutive Mid-American Conference title by beating Kent State at home. Liberty Bowl-bound Maryland, No. 14, the Atlantic Coast Conference leader, takes a break from league action by entertaining Villanova.

No. 15 Houston, which meets North Carolina State in the Bluebonnet Bowl, has a week off while No. 16 Arizona State invades Brigham Young in a key Western Athletic Conference contest. BYU leads with a 3-0-1 mark to 3-1-0 for Arizona and Arizona State. The WAC champ will host 17th-rated Oklahoma State in the Fiesta Bowl. Oklahoma State plays at Kansas State Saturday.

California, ranked 18th and still in the Pac-8 chase although ineligible for the Rose Bowl, visits Washington. Pitt, tied for 19th and a possible opponent for Mississippi State in the Sun Bowl, entertains Temple, and Texas Tech, the other No. 19 team, hosts Texas Christian.

"Michigan State is a fine football team and we will have to be ready for them," says Ohio State's Woody Hayes. "I have seen their films and they are a rapidly improving ballclub with some excellent personnel. With a TV audience (regional) and a chance to play against the toprated team in the country, I am sure they will be an inspired Inspiration may not be enough. "They just win so easily," says Stolz. "They win about 50-7 every week, give or take a few points. They usually go 7-7 with you and then get the next 40 points. It's an awesome football team. It has scored 24 times out of the last 26 it has had the ball. It is so good offensively that the defense isn't under a lot of pressure." Oklahoma's Barry Switzer expects trouble from Missouri.

"Missouri is the best football team we've played since Texas," he said. "Hopefully, our team can reach a mental attitude we've not tried to achieve in the and Stillwater, Minn. past couple of weeks. I want our team to know that Missouri can beat you. Some of the teams we've played, I didn't think they could beat us and neither did our team. Missouri can beat you." LSU has been on an unexpected downer with a 3-3-1 record, but the Bayou Bengals are given a good shot to topple Alabama .

Absentee Ballots Help Mrs. Smith

Omaha (UPI) - Mrs. Haven Smith, Republican candidate for Congress in Nebraska's 3rd District, gained 212 votes Friday as 25 of the district's 61 counties finished counting their absentee

The gain increased Mrs. Smith's margin over Democrat Wayne Ziebarth to 1,038 votes. Mrs. Smith's total rose to 79,133 votes and Ziebarth's to 78,095. Except for Scotts Bluff County, which finished late Friday, the absentee vote counting completed Friday was mostly in the smaller counties.

Mrs. Smith had held the lead in 21 of the 25 counties earlier, and scored moderate gains in 20 of the 21 in absentee counting. In Scotts Bluff County she scored 187 to 105 for Ziebarth for a net Ziebarth gained in three counties and one county, Chase, had a tie in the absentee votes.

The gains for Mrs. Smith in the absentee votes were small, but consistent. For example, she picked up a net of 30 votes in Box Butte County, 28 in Deuel, 19 in Kimball, 17 in Morrill and 20 in Valley.

The absentee vote was still to be finished in the larger counties and county clerks in most of these said it would be "some time next week" before the absentee vote was finished. Some county clerks planned to close Monday for Veterans Day and resume counting Tuesday Others planned to work through the weekend.

Several clerks said it would be Friday before the count is completed.

Lincoln County, where Ziebarth made his best showing with a vote of 5,702 to 3,081 for Mrs. Smith, had 480 absentee votes yet to be counted. Hall County, where Ziebarth also had a good lead, had 367 out.

Hall and Lincoln were two of the counties in which the clerk's offices were to be closed Mon-

Volk Takes Over As 4-H Development President From Cooper Cooperative Extension Service. vice president; and W. M. Antes. state 4-H Leader, secretarytreasurer.

Among business discussed at the day-long meeting was a proposal to rent .54-acre river front area which adjoins the Nebraska State 4-H Camp near Halsey to be used as a canoe reported that the camp attracted 14,000-15,000 young campers to the total camping program and added, "We have more requests for the camping facilities than we can handle during a peak season."

Funds which had been approved for use by the state 4-H camp were earmarked for use in winterizing remaining cabins and in building a storage but

Reports on two new camps in districts IV and V showed that progress is being made in both the fund raising and in the building processes. Associate State 4-H Leader Louie Rudman announced that the architect has submitted a plan and basic cost estimates and the fund drive has topped the $110,000 mark for the South Central Nebraska 4-H

District V.camp planners outlined the construction progress of the Eastern Nebraska 4-H Camp near Gretna. Four-H members in the 23 counties have already achieved 2/3 of their goal of $150,000 and prephesied that the 4-H'ers will make their goel within six months.

Loyd L. Young, Extension director at the southeast district headquarters in Lincoln, proposed a statewide 4-51 camping committee to coordinate and advise various district camping committees in their efforts to improve the camping facilities throughout the state. The association will consider the proposal's merits in the executive council meeting of the association. The date for that meeting was set for Dec. 11 in
